WILLISTON on the Law Governing Sales of Goods AT COMMON LAW AND UNDER THE UNIFORM SALES ACT

By SAMUEL WILLISTON (Weld Professor the Uniform Sales Act for the National State Laws.

of Law in Harvard University), Draftsman of Conference of Commissioners for Uniform

The text of this book contains a logical and coherent statement of the Law of Sales, not a mere digest of the decisions stated without reference to their bearing upon each other. The notes contain not simply fun citations of authorities, but such statements of the facts involved in important cases and such quotations from judicial opinions as to enable the reader to test the author's conclusions by the language and decisions of the courts. The book is by the author of the Sales Act, and furnishes the best guide to the meaning of that Act which is available before it is construed by the courts. The Act has already been passed in Arizona, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Rhode Island, and the passage by other states seems probable. As the Act is in the main a codification of existing Common Law, it seemed appropriate to the design of explaining the meaning of the Act to treat fully the Common Law of Sales. Accordingly, the book treats exhaustively the Law of Sales as it exists where the Sales Act has not been passed. In such jurisdictions the provisions of the Act, though not having the force of a statute, conveniently summarize the Common Law.

The important subject of Sales and Pledges by means of bills of lading and warehouse receipts has been treated with especial fullness, and it is believed that the author's treatment simplifies a somewhat difficult branch of the law. As draftsman for the National Conference of Commissioners for Uniform State Laws, not only of the Sales Act, but of the Warehouse Receipts Act (now passed by ten states, including New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, Iowa and Ohio), and of a bill to make uniform the law governing bills of lading, and as counsel for the Committee on Bills of Lading of the American Banker's Association, the author has had exceptional opportunities of discussing with railroad men, warehousemen and bankers, as well as with lawyers and legislators, the practical as well as the legal aspects of bills of lading and warehouse receipts. The portions of the book devoted to this topic are believed to be of great importance.

The subject of delivery by the buyer and retention of possession by the seller, which has been the subject of many and conflicting decisions, has been treated with greater fullness than in any other work. The law of each state is separately stated, and its decisions fully collected.

Williston on Sales is a large octavo volume, of about 1,400 pages, handsomely bound in canvas. Price $7.50 net, but sent by express, prepaid, on receipt of the amount.

THE CONTROL OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

By WILLIAM M. IVINS and HERBERT

DELANVAN MASON, of the New York Bar

In the form of an Annotation of the Public Service Commissions Law of the State of New York, and covering all important American cases whether or not within the scope of the Act, together with the text of the Federal Interstate Commerce Act and the Rapid Transit Act of New York, with elaborate indexes of the same and numerous comparative notes and cross references to parallel provisions in the several Acts.

The book is designed as a working volume, adequately indexed, which brings together, in their relation to the New York Law, all cases decided by our American courts in the matter of the regulation of Public Utilities Corporations. It in fact constitutes an elaborate digest of the entire jurisprudence of the subject.

In one large octavo volume of 1,250 pages, law canvas binding. Price $7.00, delivered on receipt of the amount.

NIMS on the Law of Unfair Business Competition

By HARRY D. NIMS, of the New York Bar.

This book is the first of its kind which deals with the equitable principles applicable to all sorts of unfair methods of competition in business, a division of the law which has been largely developed in the last few years. The extent of the protection which the law now affords and the facility with which this protection may be availed of against the many injuries suffered by manufacturers and merchants at the hands of unscrupulous competitors, is not generally realized.

The volume discusses fully the power of equity to enjoin (without the delays incident to damage suits) the unfair use of names, of goods, of persons, places, partnerships and corporations; the misuse of trade secrets, the copying of the form and shape of manufactured articles, fraudulent trading on the good will of others, unfair imitation of signs, letters, numerals, labels, wrappers, bottles and containers of all kinds; the utterance of false and untrue statements as to credit and as to the quality, source, manufacture, or merit of goods; the fraudulent and unfair interference with the contracts and business of others by such means as threats; all phases of unfair competition, as decided by the courts within the last few years.

Nims on Unfair Business Competition is a fine octavo volume, bound in buckram. Price, $6.50 net, but delivered by express, prepaid, upon receipt of the amount.

Long and Short Notes

It is human nature to be over-impressed by mere BIGNESS. One is always prone to overlook the fact that "The most valuable goods often come in the smallest package."

Take for example a note in Lawyers Reports Annotated. The length of a note means absolutely nothing as to its value, its cost to the publishers in time or money. We cannot impress this point too strongly: THE VALUE OF A NOTE IS MEASURED BY ITS COMPLETENESS. A two page note may cover its subject as completely as a 100 page note. What is more to the point, it may, and usually does, cost just as much and require just as much time to prepare as the longer note.

What is your own experience in preparing briefs? Have you not often found that the point on which there were the fewest authorities, took you the longest time to brief? It is just so in compiling and writing a note for L.R.A.

The only end sought by and the only restriction placed upon an L.R.A. editor is that each note shall completely express the law on that point. He is limited neither as to length, time or cost, and if, after a long time has been spent in preparation, the result is a very short note, no criticism is forthcoming.

This rule has been in force nearly 25 years. The result is indexed in our "Desk Book for Brief Makers," a 600 page book, royal octavo size, which every lawyer who has not the regular L.R.A. Digest should possess. Mere cost of transportation, 25 cents will bring it.

MINOR and WURTS
ON REAL PROPERTY

BY

Raleigh C. Minor, M. A., B. L.
Professor of Law, University of Virginia,

AND

John Wurts, M. A., M. L.
Professor of Law, Yale University.

For any law school to undertake to teach the changes in the law of Real Property that have been made in all the states is plainly neither possible nor desirable. Instructors and students have heretofore labored under the disadvantage of being obliged to use text books on Real Property that have been prepared for general sale among the lawyers of many different states. Statements as to what the law is in this, that, and the other state, only distract and confuse the students and throw an intolerable burden on the instructor.

Every page, every paragraph, of this book has been written for the law student. It states the common law of Real Property, showing wherein it has been repealed in this country as contrary to our fundamental laws and the spirit of our institution, and sets out such statutory changes as are common to all states.

Bispham Principles of Equity

By GEORGE TUCKER BISPHAM

Late Professor of Equity Jurisprudence, University of Pennsylvania

Edited by SHARSWOOD BRINTON, of the Philadelphia Bar

Price $6.00 Net; Canvas Binding.

IN the preparation of the present edition of this standard text-book, the treatise has been carefully revised. The references to decisions, both English and American, have been brought down to the date of going to press.

The publishers feel assured that in presenting this volume to the legal profession, they will be offering a new edition of a well known work on a most important branch of the law, which will tend to increase its high reputation for usefulness, both to the student and to the practitioner, which it has heretofore enjoyed and steadily maintained.

Attention is called, so far as students are concerned, to the fact that from no other modern work can such a brief, clear and comprehensive statement of the rise and development of Equity Jurisprudence be obtained; while the value of Mr. Bispham's book to the practitioner as a practical treatise on chancery law is applied to the solution of business problems of the present day, will be apparent from even a cursory examination. This is particularly so upon such subjects as Trusts, Trade Marks, Commercial Trusts, Strikes, Mortgages, and Maxims in Equity, in the last of which topics, the fundamental principles upon which Chancery Jurisdiction is based have been expressed.

The American and English ENCYCLOPAEDIA OF LAW AND PRACTICE

Plan of Publication

Four or five volumes will be issued each year.

An Annual Cumulative Supplement will be furnished free.

This Supplement will gather under the titles which have appeared in published volumes the decisions which have been handed down since the writers closed their work.

In order that subscribers may have the benefit of the very latest rulings of the courts, references to cases later than the last Supplement will be furnished free to subscribers on request.

The work will always be abreast of the courts.

Mechanically the volumes will be as nearly perfect as they can be made.

The Paper is made from our own formula, and for beauty and service its equal has never been placed in a law book. We call it E. T. Co. Law Bond, and each sheet is so watermarked.

The Volumes will be Royal Octavo and average about 1,400 pages each, but on account of the fineness of the paper they will bulk uniformly but two and one-half inches, making a light, handy volume.

Choice of Binding in Four Styles.—English Buckram, our own importation; English Half Calf, and it is calf; Law Sheep, highest grade skins, dark and tough; Seal Russia, very durable, dark red, suitable for the home library.

GUARANTEE The publishers guarantee to complete the American and English Encyclopaedia of Law and Practice in not to exceed fifty-five volumes, exclusive of index, or to furnish subscribers free all volumes in excess of that number required to complete the work.

PRICE The uniform price of this work in any of the four styles of binding desired is $7.50 per volume, delivered.

It is confidently believed that no announcement in the history of modern law books is of more importance to the legal profession. Here is a work representing the culmination of nearly a quarter of a century of labor and experience in perfecting the Law Encyclopaedia. In no other legal work has so much capital been invested before a line of type was set; in no other have greater efforts been put forth to make available for the profession the skill and brains of those who best know how to find and state the law with the accuracy and completeness which lawyers have learned to demand of those who make their books.

Your support of this great work is respectfully solicited

HALSBURY'S "LAWS OF ENGLAND"

BY

THE RT. HON. THE EARL OF HALSBURY,

Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, 1885-86, 1886-92, 1895-1905.

The purpose of this entirely new work is to supply in a convenient and easily accessible arrangement the WHOLE body of English Law.

The general scheme of the work was planned by LORD HALSBURY, and is being carried out under his direction. The co-operation of the most Eminent Judges and Lawyers of the day has been secured.

In completeness and accuracy this work exceeds anything before attempted. Instead of piling case upon case, and statute upon statute, the aim is, as far as possible, to deal with every branch of the law, giving a concise yet full and clear statement of the law, supported with references to decisions, authorities and statutes.

It deals fully and authoritatively with all the various branches of the Laws of England. Unusual and out-of-the-way points, too often neglected by the ordinary text writer, receive special attention.

The character of the work is essentially practical, while completeness and accuracy are its distinguishing features.

At a glance you can find the whole law of England upon a given subject, and thus save the time wasted in consulting the full reports themselves of the numerous judicial decisions (frequently conflicting).

The various subjects are dealt with by specialists whose names carry with them the weight of authority.

There is an Index, Table of Statutes and Table of Cases to each Volume, and a Consolidated Index to the entire work will form the last Volume.

The work is to be completed in 22 volumes, of which 10 are now issued in buckram binding, and will be supplied at the exceedingly moderate price of $7.50 per volume. Upon request to do so, we will forward for inspection the volumes now published.
